Hair Removal--electrolysis and Full Body Waxing
Twenty First Century Technology

Waxing—Temporary, see spa services. Laser--not permanent see links.

What we treat—Unwanted hair with the exception of eyelashes, inside of the nose and inside of the ear canal which must be done under the supervision of a physician. Moles are best removed before treatment but can be treated with a physician's release. .

Electrolysis—The Permanent Solution. Treating every color any place every season.™ A series of treatments that work with the natural growth cycle of your hair to destroy the hair at the root. Look smooth! Feel Confident!™

Electrolysis is a series of treatments that work with the natural growth cycle of your hair to destroy the hair at the root. Hair goes through growing and resting stages and not every potential hair is growing or showing.

A licensed electrologist uses a hair fine probe to destroy the hair at its root. No other method of hair removal is as safe and permanent as electrolysis.

Electrolysis has been safely and effectively used since it was first devolved in 1875 by an ophthalmologist from St. Louis, Missouri. Electrolysis is preformed by Thermolysis AC current, electrolysis DC current, and the blend multiplexed current.

Electrolysis may create a mild heat, a tingling, or a slight stinging sensation. Tolerance levels vary and adjustments can be made to deal with individual sensitivity.

If I can see it I can destroy it. Hair does not have to be excessively long to be treated. In some cases it will need to be trimmed. Hair is most successfully destroyed in the early growing stages. Short frequent sessions are better then occasional lengthy sessions. Either way the hair will be destroyed.

How long electrolysis takes is affected by such factors as frequency or dedication of the client. Genetics or heredity affects the abundance and texture of hair. Hormonal changes can affect or create an increased and unwanted hair growth.

As required by law, sterile disposable, single use probes are used with non latex gloves during the treatment. The tweezers are sterilized after being treated with an EPA approved hospital grade sterilant and heat. The probe cap is also sterile and changed for each client.
